North America's leading biofuels, carbon and LCFS event

The Argus North American Biofuels, LCFS & Carbon Markets Summit will bring together over 300 regulators, key government, and industry participants from across the entire supply chain for 3 days of networking and knowledge exchange. Participants will take advantage of this unique opportunity to get the latest policy and market insights, deepen their understanding of what to expect in the coming years and reconnect with industry peers.

Key topics on the agenda include:

- Status update of existing LCFS programs and expansions of LCFS programs in the US
- How LCFS program expansions will impact renewable feedstock demand
- Deep dive into LCFS credit generators (renewable diesel, biodiesel, SAF and renewable natural gas) and their growth outlooks
- RFS and RINs – navigating changing policies and price impacts
- Focus on Canada's proposed Clean Fuel Standard and how it will affect biofuels trade flow
- Increase in electric vehicle regulations and their impact on LCFS markets
- Look at the environmental-social-governance (ESG) movement in the oil and gas industry and beyond
- Status update for California's carbon market
- Outlook for future cap-and-trade programs in Washington and Oregon
- Next steps for the Transportation and Climate Initiative market
- How are the voluntary carbon markets expanding? A look at the schemes, mechanisms and participants
